

¡COLORES!

¡COLORES! Episode 2223 – July 23rd at 4pm

This episode features...

In this special episode, Western historian and author Paul Andrew Hutton talks about writing history and his newest book, “The Apache Wars.”

A major work of history, “The Apache Wars” is as much about people and place as it is about a long-forgotten conflict that defined the Southwest.

“I wanted to give people a real taste of what life was like in the 19th century and help them understand how we got to where we are today.”

Celebrating the creative spirit, ¡COLORES! broadcasts Saturday afternoons at 4pm.
¡COLORES! is a production of New Mexico PBS/KNME-TV.

Funding for ¡COLORES! was provided in part by The Nellita E. Walker Fund, KNME-TV Endowment Fund, The Great Southwestern Arts & Education Endowment Fund... and Viewers Like You.
